I know what I know about the proposed settlement from all of the Media attention this case has garnered. I was a Windows user and now run Linux as a result of what I strongly believe to be totally outrageous, unfair and illegal business practices by Microsoft. I just want to state before the court that I feel that any remedy MUST, for the sake of the law, be much more than a token handslap against this behemoth of a company that can manage nearly ANY financial storm the DOJ sees fit to throw at it. Don't let MS get away with what they've done, truly LEVEL the playing field and keep the open source software community a legitimate concern in the process. Many computer users out there implore you to carefully consider your findings, as it affects so many the world over.

Kind Regards,

Jason Greenwood
